April 2018

MUCH STRONGER than "It's okay to be White," the National Alliance message of "It's great to be White" was seen by thousands of drivers and passengers in hundreds of vehicles high above a major highway near Knoxville, Tennessee.

Tennessee Activism Report

We recently received the following After-Action Report (AAR), dated 21 April, from a group of National Alliance members and supporters in Tennessee:

I enjoyed exercising what is left of our supposed freedom of expression in this country by hosting an Alliance "banner drop" over southbound Interstate 40, north of Knoxville, Tennessee. The 5-foot by 10-foot banner supplied by the National Office, supported by a couple of steel rods and hardware from my local hardware store — plus three helpers, some careful planning, and our simple pro-White message — became a big hit, viewed by people in hundreds of cars passing directly under it for twenty minutes or so.

I'd wager that drivers started noticing the large blood-red banner a quarter mile away: "It's great to be White" in large letters with our natall.

A JOB WELL DONE: After getting a positive response from the public, and a polite request from local police, our activists wrap things up and make plans for more activism in the future.

com Web site address below. It generated many positive horn honks, thumbs-up, and enthusiastic waves, with a couple of not-so-pleasant hand gestures thrown in from the expected haters. The drop went off without a hitch except we stayed in one spot too long. Knoxville Police approached us on the bridge and informed us cordially that we shouldn't hold our banner "over a federal interstate." Maybe that's federal law, maybe not, but we took it to mean we should express our First Amendment rights with banners in the future only over Knoxville municipal streets and Tennessee highways. Lesson learned.

Overall, this activism was effective, gratifying, and not terribly difficult. I recommend other Alliance activists consider similar drops with professionally designed, National Office-approved banners in their respective areas. Be sure to take photos to memorialize and spread around. — D.S., Tennessee

Professional-quality artwork for having your own "It's great to be White" banner printed is freely available for download at natall.com/fliers (many local and national-chain print shops will do the printing for you).

Banned Books Available

Jeff Bezos, owner of the world's largest book retailer, Amazon.com, and also owner of the influential Washington Post (among other ventures he owns, like the over 700-store Whole Foods grocery chain), earned the crown last month of the world's richest man ever — with a personal fortune of over $112 billion, according to Forbes magazine.

When Amazon was starting out as an Internet book retailer twenty years ago Bezos claimed his Amazon customers could purchase any book that was in print and legal to sell. However, in 2017, after years of pressure from the Jewish "Holocaust" lobby, Amazon, without notice, began removing books that displeased Jews, starting with those that questioned the "six-million-Jews-murdered-in-gas-ovens-by-Germans" myth.

Two of the first books banned from sale at Amazon were the historical revisionist classics, The Hoax of the Twentieth Century: The Case Against the Presumed Extermination of European Jewry by Arthur R. Butz and Did Six Million Really Die? by Richard Harwood. It has been reported that now Amazon's "unavailable" book titles number in the hundreds, but where's that list — and why do Jews decide what Aryans can read? It has been said that the one thing worse than burning a book is making that book unavailable to read.

Amazon books is probably a million times larger than our Cosmotheist Books (CB) operation presently, yet Cosmotheist Books will offer some of the best books which are banned by Amazon when we can. Today we are offering the two rare and excellent titles mentioned above, Did Six Million Really Die? and The Hoax of the Twentieth Century (the latter of which is available in both hard and soft cover editions) while our very limited supplies of them lasts. Go to cosmotheistchurch.org/shop/ to place your order.

Cosmotheist Books continues to encounter trouble from Jewish censors and "de-platformers" and their non-Jewish collaborators like Bezos, who would block us every way they can from reaching our people. But our staff and

The Did Six Million Really Die? booklet; The Hoax of the Twentieth Century paperback; and the even harder-to-find hardback edition are shown here. They effectively demolish the hoax that holds White people in moral bondage — demolish it so effectively, in fact, that Jewish groups are constantly pushing to have these works banned. All are now available online at: cosmotheistchurch.org/shop/volunteer workers are second to none, and we are very much in business. We continue to carefully expand our book and CD selections despite the obstacles put in our way by the censors and liars.

The Right Stuff

The past few issues of this BULLETIN have featured Iowa Alliance member Jim Mathias's exemplary activism in his Quad Cities region of Iowa and Illinois, the media attention generated by that activism, and Jim's being charged on a dubious pretext of "having a firearm on school grounds." For more details visit nationalvanguard.org and search for "Quad Cities" where several articles will come up.

In the most recent article, "Quad Cities Rabbi Promotes Immigration Invasion to 'Counter' National Alliance," it is reported that a local rabbi is selling yard signs door-to-door to area residents for $10 each, supposedly to counter the National Alliance's fliering. The signs that Henry Karp is selling promote "welcoming" Muslim and other immigrant invaders.

We couldn't ask for a better delineation of the main issue: The Alliance's enemies are for the non-White invasion of our country; the National Alliance is against it. Thanks, Rabbi! To read the full article, visit

Dear Chairman Williams, April 10th was the hearing date for my two motions, one to dismiss and one to suppress. The suppression motion I hadn't mentioned before as it was recently drafted and submitted. The state made their opposing motions for each of these as well. The state had a young assistant county attorney assigned to this case, and while at the hearing I noticed that the county attorney himself and his most senior assistant were present to watch and assist. This was a surprise. I didn't expect such important people to be there!

The motion to dismiss is based on the disputed meaning of the word "school"; I allege school means a brick and mortar building with chalkboards, backpack-wearing children, and lockers. The state contends it means essentially all school district property. The definition is located at Iowa code 280.2 where it states a school is a school and notes that it means both public and private (but state-accredited) schools. It's my opinion that someone would have to expand the definition outside of legislative authority to make it fit what the county attorney contends, and my attorney has (I believe) effectively conveyed that point to the judge.

The motion to suppress involves suppressing all evidence the state brings, as 1) officer Jamie Brown began his investigation on the basis not of some law being broken, but rather the content of the fliers (a First Amendment-protected activity); and 2) that I was detained as the officer demanded to see my ID and had control over me in regards to stopping me. The hearing itself proceeded in an orderly fashion, with both attorneys reiterating their respective written motions and countermotions, followed by witness testimony, and finally closing statements.

During testimony the officer that I first encountered back in September, Captain Brown, admitted to taking fliers off of all vehicles which had them that he could see. He noticed that I had the fliers, ordered me to leave the stadium grounds, and told me that he'd begun his investigation because some woman had complained about being "offended." He mentioned wanting to "prevent violence" that might have occurred because of the content of the fliers, since, he stated, there was a "diverse" crowd at the stadium that evening. He denied being offended himself by the content of the fliers. His testimony was that the whole encounter was consensual, and denied that I had been detained. Yet, in ordering me to leave the stadium grounds, he was exercising control over my presence.

Another officer was present there that evening, a Sergeant Andre Neyrinck, who holds a position as school liaison officer. He also has admitted to removing fliers, and stated that he was doing so on his own initiative (the school district didn't tell him to do so). He was the one who later sent me (at the request of the local school district) a lifetime no trespass notice.

A school district official, the district's Athletic Director, testified as well, but to talk about their policies — nothing substantial except that they have policies against possession of weapons and flliering on school district property. He didn't order the police to remove the flyers. He did mention that not all of the district's policies are always enforced.

My opinion: The hearing went well. My attorney was very good at coming up with pertinent questions and was alert at spotting objectionable lines of questioning. My concern is the judge, a White female in her 60s and of decent repute in the legal community so far as I can tell. Call me prejudiced, but women tend to stretch the meanings of words a bit and I wonder if she'll do so with the definition of what a "school" is. Also, she is employed by the state and like nearly every judge I've ever encountered, she may decide to tip the scales of justice a bit to favor the side of the state as a matter of self-interest. To me a school is a school, and a stadium isn't, but a similar case, Vermont v. Schenk (the case of a Klansman who was fliering in 2016), has gone to that state's Supreme Court and is still undecided. Even the appellate court level judges over there have a finger or three on the scales of justice. In my opinion, the law isn't the worst culprit; it's those administering it who are. Iowa cannot claim to be any exception here.

After court, since I was downtown, I did take the opportunity to put about 80 fliers under windshield wipers in the area. It was a beautiful day, I had the fliers with me, and, who knows, I may have awakened someone who could make a difference.

Fight to the end; make them earn it. My very best regards, — Jim Mathias, Iowa.

Update: Both of Jim's motions were denied by Judge Nancy Tabor. His trial is docketed for 7 May, 2018.

Legal Update

Chairman Williams was told he need not attend yet another pre-trial hearing in West Virginia on Friday, the 13th of April, because it was "not conceivable" that Judge Jennifer Dent would actually grant the motion to dismiss the lower court's order for defendant Garland Corse to return the phone system and computer she had stolen from the National Alliance — said items having been purchased by Mr. Williams for the Alliance, with receipts for those items provided to the court. Not conceivable? Wrong! Judge Dent granted the defendant's motion to dismiss. Chairman Williams' reaction to the judge's decision was to say, "Unbelievable!" Williams was told that the judge "just wanted to get rid of the case," but that she did allow that his civil claim against Corse can be refiled — forcing us to go to a great deal of trouble and expense just to begin the same potentially frustrating process all over again.

Williams has yet another pre-trial hearing in West Virginia on 25 May, then his appeal there of the assault conviction originally alleged by, yes, Garland Corse, is scheduled to be heard on 22 June. That is nearly three years after the alleged "assault" of Corse and her related illegal coup attempt in which she sought to take over the National Alliance, using the courts and filing false documents.

Correspondence

Hello, National Alliance. I'm from the Quad-Cities (Davenport IA/Moline IL area). I discovered Kevin Strom's American Dissident Voices show about your activist in the area (Dec 2017). I'd like for the National Alliance to provide him with the email address above if he is interested in working together with myself and two other young men. — M.L., Illinois

Chairman Williams: You asked how and when I first came in contact with the National Alliance. I researched the Alliance ten years ago when Montana was still mostly White. That is starting to change now, so I decided it's time to join with you and other Alliance members. — J.S., Montana (via his Member Survey form)

Dear National Alliance: You have given me purpose in life. I am working on recovering from alcoholism so I can become a member in good standing of the National Alliance in the future. Thank you for all that you do. — A.T. Wyoming (in a note accompanying a significant donation through the cosmotheistchurch.org Web site)

Chairman Williams responds: Thank you for that and for your generous donation, A.T. We need thousands of upstanding Alliance members, in Wyoming alone, who will share your same sense of responsibility to our race and your new-found sense of purpose in this life. Giving up a destructive habit can be empowering. Ours is a deadly serious message that is best conveyed to other Whites face to face, by those of us us who can explain soberly and powerfully the urgent need for our people to organize.

The collective purpose of racial renewal has lain dormant, nearly blunted, in too many of our people for too long. Wyoming is a good place for Whites to make an early stand. Even with all of the Mestizos migrating into the state, Wyoming is still a little more than 90 per cent. White, with over a half million of our kinsmen calling it home. Some are ready to organize for White interests, most are not. Not yet. There are a little over one million people next door in Montana where Whites make up nearly 90% of the population (6% of Montanans are American Indian). Hopefully, A.T. in Wyoming will soon join with us and eventually be networking with new member J.S. in Montana and with all the followers-to-come in that large, still predominantly White, five-state region that includes the Dakotas and Idaho, as well as parts of other contiguous states and Canada.

Hi, Chairman Will! Just a note to let you know your letter arrived with your kind note enclosed. That was very nice of you, and much appreciated.

When Peter [Rushton, Assistant Editor of Heritage and Destiny magazine] is next up at the H&D office mid-April-ish, I'll take him out for a meal and drinks, and we will have a toast to Dr. William Luther Pierce and the re-born National Alliance. Keep up the good work.

Regards, — Mark Cotterill, UK, editor of Heritage and Destiny magazine

Chairman Williams responds: Glad to give you and Peter a little appreciation for your excellent work, Mark.

Your giving me a voice in Heritage and Destiny for the National Alliance is much appreciated by us all.

On Activism

Displays of National Alliance banners, like the one D.S. and friends pulled off on that Knoxville-area overpass earlier this month, can be effective, especially if the event is picked up and spread through social media, then mainstream media, as a force multiplier. Call me old-fashioned; I do not participate in so-called social media (Twitter, Facebook, etc.), have never owned a cell phone, texted, or taken a selfie, and am generally disgusted to see so many people these days so engrossed with their smart phones instead of paying attention to what is happening around them and to their people. But I recognize there are advantages to having a digital camera in one's pocket at all times, with access to instant worldwide communications for finding and sharing information. Phenomenal advancements! Some of those cars driving under our banner are sure to have had passengers who immediately did an Internet search for "National Alliance" or "natall.com" — and saw our great White world open up for them.

At the end of August last year the New Order folks commemorated the 50th anniversary of the assassination of George Lincoln Rockwell on the very spot that Commander Rockwell was murdered. They displayed a long banner reading "Lincoln Rockwell Lives!" — and displayed it again last month, in commemoration of what would have been Rockwell's 100th birthday, at his birthplace in Bloomington, Illinois (see the March issue of the BULLETIN). Neither media nor law enforcement were notified of the New Order's plans, and no notice was given on their Web site or announced anywhere online. Yet, as the group reported after the August event:

> [P]rivate individuals observing the ceremony took cell phone photographs of the event, which were then posted online and quickly picked up by the news media. Articles about and photos of the event subsequently appeared in the Washington Post, the Richmond Times-Dispatch, numerous local publications, and the UK's Daily Mail.

That is remarkable! If our people are going to use social media, then this is how they should be used: to promote our organization and program and to give our people hope in desperate times. We must create innovative ways to bring many more Whites' eyes to natall.com and nationalvanguard.org, then organize those perceptive few who understand what we say and agree with us — those willing to make a commitment — into "a mass movement of will and determination." We are a long way still from Dr. Pierce's vision of that mass movement, but we are keeping it alive for the younger generations coming up now. Plans are afoot to insure Alliance longevity, but those plans will not be revealed in advance, even in these monthly BULLETIN pages.

When some visit our Web site and read Building a New White World they immediately see that the Alliance is what they have been looking for. They will download and print the membership application form at the bottom, find it agreeable, pull out a pen, fill in and sign the form, write a check, and drop it all in the mail to our National Office without hesitation or trepidation. Their lives have a new, noble purpose. Then there are others like J.S. in Montana who have watched the Alliance for ten years or even longer before joining with us. It's fortunate we are still here for J.S. to join after the last ten years of turmoil. The Alliance must be in place ten years from today, and beyond, for latecomers to the cause — and much further along in our program than we are presently. Constant, persistent activism by Alliance members is required.

There are so many ways for our members to promote the National Alliance besides literature distributions and banner drops. Letters to editors, calling in to talk radio shows — always getting in the Alliance's Web addresses, if allowed, or providing some other way for like-minded folks to contact us for more information. Be creative as you can to legally get out the Alliance message, then let me know what you did, and of any positive results. Other activists may be inspired to do the same when they read about your method, or try to outdo you. The healthy competition will be good for us, and help us become more effective all the time.

The long-awaited Power of Truth, vol. 7 has 20 powerful talks by Dr. Pierce that can be used for regular "listening parties," or to play for a prospective Alliance recruit. How we could have already included 120 of the best of WLP in the first six CDs in the series without including such classics as "Out of the Darkness" and "Cosmotheism: Wave of the Future" is hard to believe and shows the depth of Dr. Pierce's body of work. There will be more.

This notice is for those Alliance members — you know who you are — who checked the little "Yes" box on your confidential Member Survey next to the question, "Would consider relocating to do Alliance work?" I have talked to several of you who checked "Yes" about the possibility of relocating to our large West Virginia property, or at least visiting there for a while to help maintain the place. I have not followed up about that lately, but now that spring has sprung and our guest house is habitable, I extend the call again to all of those of you who are able, to consider helping our Jay Hess maintain the mountain paradise Dr. Pierce purchased 33 years ago. Let me know. Write to the National Office at the Tennessee address, or email me at alliancechairman@natall.com.
